Crazy cool online shopping

As professional buyers, for life, we at Refinery29 know where to find the right things. We enjoy studying every possible retail resource to suss out the best of our readers – and ourselves. Although we certainly have our fashion spots (s/o for Net-a-Porter, & Other Stories and Target, favorites), we also know that some of the most interesting pieces are found by searching in unexpected places. The only thing better than a breakthrough in point is to know that it came from a place where it might not be discovered by the average buyer, or that you have reused an everyday item in an alternative way, it may not surprise you that once we meet publishers - or get to Slacking - we start sharing stories about these rare, eye-opening discoveries. Conversation Do you have where? it's happening more than you think inside our office, and it's such a source of entertainment for us that we just had to share. From repurposing menswear for the beach to shopping the less known clothing section of Home Depot, our publishers can get very creative when it comes to sourcing wardrobe components. Click through to read about shopping mvps here at Refinery29, and where their hottest stuff score. You'll never guess where they're assembling their seizures. At Refinery 29, we're here to help you navigate this overwhelming world of things. All of our market choices are independently selected and curated by the editorial team. If you buy something that links us from our website, Refinery29 can earn commission. Online shopping has been taking the world by storm since the mid-1990s, when consumers were able to buy albums, books and pizza on the Internet for the first time. E-commerce has come a long way since then. Now you can buy almost anything from your computer, smartphone or tablet from the comfort of your own home. Many online retailers allow you to store your payment information so you don't have to take out your credit card. In one click, you can have your purchases delivered directly to the door. Gone are the days when you should run to the shops every time you need something. In fact, stores around the world are closing their doors as online retailers flourish and expand. According to the Retail Research Centre, online shopping is the fastest form of retail, and this probably won't change anytime soon. Traditional brick and mortar shops disappear and are replaced by shopping experiences, such as pop-up stores and events that allow customers to test products in new and exciting ways. Get offers, tips and secrets from the inside with to the hottest fashion and beauty trends. Stay ahead of the curve on what is in style and where to find the best bargains. DiscoveryUncover the best brands you've never heard of and explore a wide range of products. You could be one of the first to discover the next important thing. ElectronicsI did my job to help you find the cheapest and ways to buy computers, phones, games, cameras and more. While everyone has their own reasons for online shopping, what it comes down to for most people is convenience and variety. You can simply find more products in less time when you shop online. Not to mention the fact that the Internet is a treasure trove of offers, discounts, sales and coupons, which means that you can often find your favorite products at a lower cost. If you want to browse a wide range of products and services, look for the best deals and avoid the crowd, online shopping is the way to go. What can you buy online? You can now just get about anything delivered from online retailers, from accent tables and alarm clocks to yoga mats and zebra print shoes. You have names, you can probably get online, but the most purchased product online might surprise you. According to Business Insider Australia, it's books! Books were one of the first items available when you started shopping online, and they are still a popular purchase today. The wide range of products available online includes the following: Electronics. Where better to buy electronics than on the Internet? Online retailers usually offer the latest gadgets as soon as they are available. Why line up to get the next phone or be worn on the day it's launched, when you can save precious time and deliver it directly to the door? You can also find reviews, technical support, and online user guides to help you get the most out of your tech purchases. Fashion and beauty. There is no shortage of fashion and beauty online retailers. While you might be worried about the matching and quality of clothes purchased online, reading reviews can be a handy tool to tell you everything you need to know about fit and sizing. The explosion in popularity of beauty tutorials means that you can also get the best tips and watch professionals try products before you buy. If you're not happy with new clothes, makeup or accessories, many stores offer flexible return and exchange policies. Homemade items. Just about everything you need for your home can be found online. You can get inspiration for new decorations, learn home improvement tips, browse deals on new furniture and homewares and even try new mattresses. Sport and fitness. Looking to get healthier? Peruses sporting goods, fitness equipment and dining delivery services. Gifts. When your next holiday, birthday or birthday rolls, you can order gifts, such as chocolate, flowers, jewelry and toys online. Note that most online retailers offer massive savings lead to major holidays. Whether you want food delivered on the same day, flowers sent to a loved one for a special occasion or the latest products directly to your door, you can find it online. One in five people still avoid shopping online because of security concerns Despite more people shopping online for Christmas this year than ever before, many are still holding back due to fears about internet security. That's according to a new report from GetSafeOnline government-backed campaign. He claims that more than one in five still avoid online shopping due to security issues related to card details and personal information. Christmas buyers in the UK are expected to spend over £13bn online this year - an increase of 42 per cent from last year. But while many feel confident about the security of their PC or laptop, it is the broadest issue scared by online shopping that now causes the most concern. Misuse of credit or debit card details and phishing websites that do not deliver ordered items are among the threats to which buyers are the most vulnerable and least savvy. That's usually the advice, if you remain vigilant when shopping online and keep an eye out for warning signs, you should be fine. If a deal seems too good to be true, it probably is, says Tony Neate, managing director of GetSafeOnline.org. Cyber criminals looking to cash inAccording to a report from Trend Micro, cyber criminals have been preparing for the Christmas shopping period for months. Online shoppers entering common phrases into search engines - like Christmas gift shopping - will see links near the top of the results leading directly to malicious sites that host a number of malware, warns the security vendor. Since September, cybercriminals have been boosting their search engine rankings using a variety of methods, such as spam comment and spam blog in preparation for the Christmas period, says Raimund Genes of Trend Micro. With shoppers visiting these sites likely to buy goods online after infection, their credit card details become a primary target for cyber criminals looking for financial gains this season. Malicious sites have also been found to port HTML tags that redirect and install multiple malware on affected systems. Trend Micro suggests the use of security software that is able to block malicious content on web pages, breaking the chain before any infection can occur. If you can bring yourself to the online store, you better hurry - today is Amazon.co.uk day for free posting before Christmas. Christmas. Christmas.
